Wood density, percentage weight loss, and water content between the blocks colonised with different species at the start of the competition experiment. Comparison between fungal species were performed by Kruskal-Wallis test. Note that data of the lowest density and the highest weight loss in Laetiporus sulphureus was removed from analysis.